About you

Your goals: Build a buffer of three months and buy a laptop before my thesis.

Your numbers compared with common guidelines, most important first.

ACT ON THIS DEBT

Expensive debt

Credit card: € 320,00 at 13.9%.

Debt at 8% or more costs more than savings or investments usually earn. Paying it off first (highest rate first) is usually the best 'return'. The Debt payoff calculator shows how fast.

WORTH A LOOK SAVING

You keep 0% of your income

Average income € 1.463,83, spending € 1.457,76, left over € 6,07 a month.

A common guideline is to save 10-20% of net income. Even a small automatic transfer to savings on payday helps.

WORTH A LOOK BUFFER

Your buffer covers 2.5 months

Liquid savings € 2.490,00 vs. about € 989,67 of essential costs a month.

The common guideline is 3-6 months: between € 2.969,01 and € 5.938,02. Consider a savings goal for the difference.

WORTH A LOOK SPENDING

Fixed needs take a large share

Needs 68%, wants 32%, saved 0% of income (guideline 50/30/20).

When essentials take more than about 60%, there's little room left. The biggest lever is usually housing, transport or insurance - compare contracts once a year.

WORTH A LOOK BUDGETS

Budgets that keep running over

Over budget in most recent months: Going out.

Either the budget is unrealistic (raise it and lower another one), or this is a spending habit worth looking at.

WORTH A LOOK SPENDING

Spending is up 47%

Your last 3 months cost more than the 3 months before.

Check the Trends page to see which categories grew. Sometimes it's a one-off; if not, adjust your budgets.

WORTH A LOOK GOALS

"New laptop" needs more per month

€ 750,00 to go in 8 months: € 93,75 a month. You have about € 6,07 a month left over.

Move the target date, lower the target, or free up money in your budget.

INFO DEBT

Student debt

Student debt of € 14.500,00 is filled in.

Student debt usually has a low interest rate and repayments that depend on income. Check the current rate and your repayment amount in Mijn DUO; the Student loan calculator shows the effect of paying extra. Mortgage lenders take student debt into account.

GOOD DEBT

Debt payments take 3% of income

€ 50,00 a month in repayments.

That's a manageable share.
